Lunch & Learn: Reducing Anxiety & Increasing Confidence

Virtual

Presented by Mariposa Education

As children return to the social, academic, and physical demands of school, anxiety and stress can seem to rise. Parents struggle to know how to support them and also help them meet expectations too. In this workshop, you will discover the various ways anxiety shows up and why our efforts to help often backfire. By exploring the science linking anxiety and behavior, you will develop a new understanding of how to help your child navigate anxiety while also cultivating and preserving your own relationship with your child. And we will give you some of the strategies and language you need when anxiety and stress run high. #mentalhealth
